1.1.1 Types of Drugs of Abuse

The various methods for taking samples are best suited to different circumstances and types of drugs.

Saliva and breath testing provides results for recent drug use. Urine testing provides results for less recent drug use and it can take up to 24 hours after use before the drug will display in a urine sample. Depending on the type of drug and frequency of use, results may display up to 30 days after drug use
